Overview Full refurbishment & interior design, lighting, electrics & furniture

A growing national law firm looking to expand their services into the South West of England, appointed Karris to refurbish their new offices at Dix's Field in Exeter. The 3 month programme involved stripping out existing partitions, re-designing the layout to include conferencing space, a new reception and breakout area, and a total refurbishment of the ground and first floor. Carefully selected materials and furniture now reflect the branding across all of their national offices.
