Overview Full refurbishment, interior design & furniture supply

In early 2015 this growing law firm were looking to refurbish their 20,000 sq ft office space at Gill Akaster House. The brief was to create an open plan, modern and professional environment which allowed for future expansion, with minimum disruption to the business. The designers at Karris worked closely with key staff members to create a new layout and after close analysis of the brand opportunities, produced a full interior design scheme. A phased 10 month programme of works was then developed and completed in April 2016. GA's impressive new offices have already received numerous positive comments from staff and customers.
